Secretary of Labor Tells How to Meet Problem of Overproduction.

STRUGGLE FOR EXISTENCE STILL LOT OF THOUSANDS

Must Be Provided With Wages So They Can Buy What They Want, He Says.

(Associated Press)

The much-discussed problem of overproduction "is really a problem of under-consumption," Secretary of Labor Davis declared in a statement yesterday in commemoration of Labor Day.

"In the long run," he said, "If our people are placed in an economic posttion where they can buy what they want, consumption will catch up with production."

production."

"As our standards of living rise, our demands for goods increase," the Secretary continued. "A majority of our workers receive good substantial wages, but there are thousands of them who have yet to get beyond the existence line; and when these become so situated that they can buy what they want, we shall not need to worry over the matter of over-production.

Must Develop Home Market.

Must Develop Home Market.

"The majority of the employers of today have come to the idea that as we develop and improve the home market we insure better times for all concerned. This idea has fully proved itself during the tremendous prosperity of the past few years.

"Indeed, we have made great progress and we shall make still more in the years to come. We shall continue in the practice of seeing to it that the Nation's wealth is more evenly divided and that the worker receives a fair share in return for his contribution to American prosperity.

"And thus we celebrate this Labor Day with a new feeling of confidence, knowing that the reciprocal respect between all units of industry is to be a permanent one. We know that out of the far-seeing efforts of those who insisted from the beginning that in industry and labor American standards should be placed within the reach of all, there have come benefits that are accruing wealth, peace, profitable employment and a new and brighter fuwill drive workers to underground and dubious methods to do what they formerly did in the light of day" was sounded today at the opening of the annual trade-union congress.

President George Hicks, leader of the Building Trade Workers, sounded the warning in his opening speech. He also held out the olive branch to employers, stressing the importance of creating a machinery for bringing them together with workers peaceably to negotiate settlement of trade disputes.

"Practically nothing has been done to establish an effective machinery for industry as a whole," he said. "There are many problems for which joint discussion would prove valuable at the present time. A much fuller use can be made of machinery for joint consultation and negotiation between employers and employed.

A discussion toward 'industrial peace.' A discussion along these lines would bring both sides face to face with the hard realities of the present economic situation and might yield useful results in showing upon what terms cooperation is pos-

Mr. Hicks also warned of the danger of another war through the militarism of men in power and alluded to the question of the relations with Soviet Russia, which is expected to come up

He maintained an uncompromising attitude toward the trades-union act, recent parliamentary measure which among other things makes general strikes illegal and strengthens the law regarding the prevention of intimidation in connection with strikes. Trade-unionism, he said, will have to find new methods if it is to survive.

The assemblage for the congress was the smallest in many years. This lack of attendance was said to be due to the decrease in trade-union membership since the failure of the general strike and the miner's strike.

Reidsville, N. C., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Solicitor Allen Gwyn said today that Mrs. Alma Petty Gatlin, charged with patricide, would be given a preliminary hearing tomorrrow. This afternoon investigators were endeavoring to clear up certain phases of the alleged slaying of her father, which as yet are unexplained.

The body of Mrs. Gatlin's father, J. Smith Petty former cotton mill over Smith Petty, former cotton mill over seer, was found Saturday buried in ellar under a house once occupied by cellar under a house once occupied by the Petty family.

Sheriff J. F. Smith today intimated that until it was definitely determined whether or not more than one person was involved in the killing and burial of Petty, probably a year ago, the inquiry would be continued.

Mrs. Gatlin, bride of two months, today sat in the county jail and continued stoutly to deny any knowledge of the crime with which she is charged, and to which the Rev. Thomas Pardue testified at the coroner's inquest that testified at the coroner's inquest that she had confessed to him at a revival meeting in his church some months ago.

Petty's body was buried in a local cemetery yesterday. The services were attended by a large crowd. All members of the family except Mrs. Gatlin were present.

Petty's body was found buried 3 feet under a pile of coal after deputy sheriffs had excavated for a day and a half. The body was easily recognizable and examination disclosed that death had been caused by heavy blows on the head that had crushed the skull. The Rev. Mr. Pardue, in his testimony telling of the alleged confession of the young bride, said she told him she killed her father with an ax.

Today the minister declared "a lot of things have yet to come out."

Chicago, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The recent world conference on faith and order in Lausanne proved the rapid approach of denominational unity in Christianity, according to Dr. George Craig Stewart, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Evanston, a delegate.

"The outstanding note of the conference was that of Christian charity," said Dr. Stewart. "Considerateness, forbearance, kindness, love, were manifest in every session. If any Little Peterkin pipes up and asks what good came from it, the answer is clear: A great access in the will to visible unity of the Body of Christ, the Church. In addition, there has come to all an increased respect for each others' points of view.

"On the whole, so far as the faith of the church is concerned, there is one noble, solemn and unanimous acceptance of Jesus Christ as incarnate God and Savior of the world."

Tyler, Tex., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The story of how she was dragged from bed by four masked men and flogged with a knotted rope after her husband had been knocked unconscious was related been knocked unconscious was related on the witness stand here today by Mrs. Willie Straps, 23, in the trial of Cain Anderson, wealthy planter, on a charge of violating the State antimask law. Mrs. Straps identified Anderson as one of the assailants and named D. Os-borne, a tenant on Anderson's farm, as another member of the whipping party. Osborne is awaiting trial.

Osborne is awaiting trial.

The State called Mrs. Straps as a re buttal witness. Previous testimony had dealt with the flogging of J. H. Richardson and his wife, parents of Mrs. Straps. They were beaten by the four masked men June 8, the night Mrs. Straps and her husband were attacked.

Both families were tenants on Anderson's place, and it was testified the floggers declared the punishment was administered because the Richardsons and Straps had not worked hard and Straps had not worked hard enough.

Anderson took the witness stand this morning and denied that he was one of the floggers. He declared he was home in bed and knew nothing about the affair until the next morning when he sent some medicine to the victims.

"Willie and I were fixing to go to bed," Mrs. Straps testified. "We had turned out the light. Suddenly four men ran into the house, one behind the other, carrying guns. They ordered us to hold our hands up, which we did. One knocked Willie down with a six-shooter, when Willie tried to get six-shooter, when willie tried to get his gun. Willie got up when two of the men took hold of me, but they knocked him down again, this time unconscious," Mrs. Straps testified.

Threw Her Across Trunk.

"They threw me across a trunk. One of the men holding me was D. Osborne, a tenant on Anderson's farm, and the man with the rope was Cain Anderson. They held me, whipped me with the rope, which was knotted, and then let me up. D. Osborne said, "We don't want no more laying around 3 o'clock in the afternoon. You must get into the field, at sunup, work until 12, go back at 1 and work till sundown."

Mrs. Straps said she saw Anderson's face under a red handkerchief when he bent over her.

"One man said he would blow my brains out if I crossed the creek nearby, or went over to the Craig place, across a wire fence, where the Richardsons were staying," she said.

Vienna, Sept. 5.—The hot-headedness of the Jugoslavs in an election campaign is proverbial, but even the excitable Slavs of the South were indignant today over the sanguinary electioneering last night at Danllograde, in the wild mountain district of Montenegro.

The Democratic party candidate was giving his final speech before the general election when a woman rushed up on the platform and caught him by the moustache, slicing off his nose with a knife. She is thought to have been inspired by the Montenegrin Irrendists, who oppose the union with Belgrade. Detroit, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—William S. Gilbreath, one of the promoters of the Dixie and other National highways, was kidnaped in his own automobile last night and was forced to sit in the back seat while two other men were robbed and one of them beaten to death.

Three bandits took part in the holdups, robbing Gilbreath of a small amount of money first and forcing him to accompany them in his car to an oil station which they held up. The attendant at the station, Ted Nolan, also was compelled to ride in the car by the bandits who feared he would

Edmund Weiner, a pedestrian, and beat him to death with the butt end of and Gilbreath were liberated by the thugs after the killing and police later found Gilbreath's car which had been abandoned.

Philadelphia, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Trapped in an apartment by means of a "tip" to police from an unknown source, Leo Fowler; a former Detroit policeman, was arrested today as one of two men who held up and robbed a grocery here last Saturday of $100.

Fowler and Ralph Dickerson, who was arrested shortly after the robbery when a girl taxicab driver ran her car on a sidewalk and plnned him to a wall with her cab, have confessed to the robbery, police said. Dickerson said he was a member of the Ninth Regiment, Co. I, United States Infantry.

Dickerson, also known as Edward Blackman, told police he had a wife living in Birmingham, Ala., his former home. He admitted, police asserted, that he and another man, while serving in the A. E. F. killed a military policeman in Paris.

To Refuel at Harbor Grace,

To Refuel at Harbor Grace.

Later tonight Wood announced that there was not enough gasoline in the tanks of the Royal Windsor to take her to Croydon, England, where it is planned the plane will land after circling Windsor. He said he would refuel at Harbor Grace, N. F., if a supply of gasoline was available there.

The Old Glory, which arrived here Saturday from Rooseveit Field, has been held up by the delayed arrival of its complete load of gasoline and refuctance of its backer, William Randolph Hearst, to permit a take-off until the Government had ok'd the machine. Both difficulties were believed to have been smoothed out today, but Phil Payne, the flight diffector, postponed the take-off until tomorrow.

Due to tide conditions on the beach here, the Old Glory probably will not take to the air until some time tomorrow afternoon.

Lowden Quarters Opened in New York

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Sept. 5.—William H. Crawford, political writer and newspaper man, announced today the opening of a Lowden-for-President headquarters at the Waldorf-Astoria. Mr. Crawford said that a force of stenographers and clerks would be installed, the organization beginning tomorrow. The Lowden workers will occupy a room on the eight floor. Mr. Crawford says the movement is backed by the Illinois supporters.

Thomas P. Moffatt, formerly connected with the consular service in Nicaragua, last spring opened a Lowden headquarters here, using it as a clearing house for correspondence with friends of former Gov. Lowden in the East.

Mount Carroll, Ill., Sept. 5 (AP.).—
Despondency over financial difficulties caused Henry Diehl, 53, a farmer living on the edge of Lanark, to shoot and kill his wife and 14-year-old child and then take his own life, a coroner's jury decided today.

The three bodies were found in the bedroom of the farm home yesterday afternoon by Joseph Laird, a hired man, and a neighbor, Riley Lotsbaugh. All had been snot through the neal. Laird, who said he had last seen the family last Thursday night when they returned from a social gathering, had been away from the farm for two days.

Diehl had lived in this vicinity virtually all his life and had a farm of 160 acres.

Vessel Reports Redfern 165 Miles Off Venezuela

Georgia to Brazil Flier Dropped Notes Asking That Ship Be Pointed Toward Nearest Coast, and Distance Told, Officers Say.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—
The Norwegian steamship Christian
Krohg, docking here late today, reported that it had sighted Paul R.
Redfern and his airplane, Port of Brunswick, August 26 when he was within 165 miles of the South American coast.
Redfern circled about the ship for some time, it reported, and dropped

"Please point ship toward nearest land."

Apparently he was not satisfied that the ship's officers had understood the note, they said, and he dropped a secomd note before his request could be complied with. A boat had been lowered and the first note recovered before the second landed in the water.

Redfern circled about the ship for some time, it reported, and dropped live notes, three of which sought direc-

the notes, three of which sought directions.

He last was seen, officers said, heading in the direction of the Venezuelan mainland, 165 miles away. Between him and the mainland was a group of islands, but 100 miles from the point where he was sighted by the ship. Officers expressed the opinion that Redfern either had reached the mainland or had landed on one of the islands between the ship and the continent.

The ship was proceeding from Port au Spain. Trindad, to Kingston, Jamaica, when the plane was sighted. At the time the plane was sighted hat each of the deck and circled back over the ship, dropping a note enclosed in a round pasteboard box. The note read:

The waiter time board and W. T. Notweet, fireman on the Christian Krohg, leaped overboard in Poort and procured it. The second note or "Point ship toward nearest land and wave one time for each 100 miles distance."

A third note picked up by the boat was similar to the others and was signed "Redfern, Thanks."

The ship turned her bow toward the west, where 100 miles are the largest. These islands are 65 miles west of Venzuela.

In addition to waving a flag to indicate the distance to nearest land, the ship sounded two blasts on its whistle. The aviator circled about the ship several times before turning his mose toward the west, officers said.

The waster was splended for flying, they reported.

The second landed in the water near the boat, and W. T. Notweet, fireman on the Christian Krohg, leaped over-board and procured it. The second note read:

Two Weeks, Departs

San Francisco, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Discouraged by two weeks' bobbing about the Pacific under steady chaperonage by the United States Coast Guard cutter Cahokia, the rum ship Noble has sailed for Vancouver, B. Lansing. Mich.. Sept. 5 (A.P.).—
Based on the theory that motorists pay little heed to speed laws once outside the corporate limits of cities, a legislative experiment in the form of a "no-limit" speed statute went into effect last Michigan today. Passed during the last session of the legislature, the new law replaces one prescribing a maximum of 35 miles an hour on country roads.

A novel feature of the law is that while it does not set a general regulation as to speed rates, it does provide that a driver must have his car in complete control at all times in order to cope with prevailing traffic conditions. The provision reads: "No person shall drive any vehicle upon a highway at a speed greater than will permit him to bring it to a stop within the assured clear distance ahead."

COOLIDGE TO ATTEND ALFALFA FAIR TODAY;

Rapid City Citizens to Be the Guests to Tell President He Will Be Remembered.

LOCALITY HAS BEEN MADE PROSPEROUS

President Expects to Reach Washington at 9:40 P. M. Sunday.

By CARLISLE BARGERON (Staff Correspondent of The Post.) Rapid City, S. Dak., Sept. 5.—Presi-ent Coolidge entered today upon what s to be a week of amenities incident his leaving Friday.

In so far as today was concerned the President spent it quietly at the code. He did not come into the school odge. He did not come into the school nouse executive offices as he had planned, but rather chose to remain at the lodge. Neither fishing nor horseback riding broke the day. He simply sat around keeping the day to himself. But tomorrow he is expected to go to the alfalfa fair which opened here today for three days with horse racing, plenty of pop and red lemonade and all sorts of agricultural displays. Mrs. Coolidge is to be the guest at tea of the Fortnightly Club. John Coolidge probably will go with his father to the fair.

All of Rapid City, virtually, plans to make a pilgrimage to the lodge either Wednesday or Thursday to tell the President and the rest of the family goodby. It is to be a holiday here and everybody wants to assure the Coolidges that they will never be forgotten.

For Mr. Coolidge a mountain, a boy scout camp and a Sylvan theater have been named, and the President also plans to write the inscription for Gutzon Borglum's memorial cut on Rushmore Mountain. Probably nothing so important and meaning so much to the Black Hills in general and Rapid City in particular has ever happened as the President's stay here. For months the local paper has carried the slogan "Summer Capital of the United States" at its masthead, and newspapers throughout the country and abroad have carried headlines, "Rapid City says."

There are perhaps some keen disappointments among the various social sets of this little town in that the President and Mrs. Goolidge have avoided local entertainments, except those of a general community nature. Bridge playing and tea parties are about all the socially inclined have to do, but there is all sorts of rivalry as to which group or clique can do the most of playing and tea parties are about all the socially inclined have to do, but there is all sorts of rivalry as to which group or clique can do the most of this. So, had the President and Mrs. Coolidge leaned toward any one group, there would have been trouble.

But there are no disappointments among the business crowd. Under the stimulus of the President's stay here the "new hotel," which had been long on the blueprints, is now really being built, new money is coming into the town, and it is preparing for the greatest boom it has ever known.

The question of which local influence was really responsible for bringing the Presidential party here will probably never be settled, and any discussion of it for years to come will engender about as much heat as the Civil War. One newspaperman accompanying the President wrote a long story giving the credit to one local light. It was reprinted in the local newspaper but this local newspaper has regretted it ever since.

At any rate, the Fresident's coming

He is given general credit for it but when it comes to the question of who, among the local people, was the most active, that is a horse of another color. The President's return schedule as now agreed upon calls for his reaching Washington at 9:40 o'clock Sunday night

Then he must set about to appoint ambassadors to Mexico and Cuba and a governor general of the Philippine Islands. He must look over the tax reduction possibilities and determine Leonard Mooneyham, 30, Herbert's brother, was cut on the arm, and Tully Muncy, merchant, lost several fingers in the altercation. Jim St. John, contractor, who was acting as bookkeeper at the pie supper, is under $2,500 bond to answer charges of wounding the Mooneyham brothers. The trouble is alleged to have started when the elder Mooneyham began an argument over who had purchased one of the pies.

GER! MAY PUTS THE QUESTION.

Dr. Gustlav Stresemann, German foreign s riven notice that he intends to secretary, ha force a discussin of the disarmament question neeting of the league of naat the prese tions at Gene va. Germany is the only great nation that is diarmed. Its army is limited to 100,000 men, aid it is not permitted to build military airplanes, submarines, tanks, or canis limited to few and small non. Its navy

The Treaty of Versailles, by implication at least, committed the nations to follow Germany in stripping off armaments. The rigorous terms imposed upon Germany were accompanied by assurances that Germany's neighbors would disarm in due time, so that no great army or navy would be needed by that nation. But eight years after the signing of the Treaty of Versailles finds France and Poland heavily armed and capable of applying irresistible pressure upon Germany. The British fleet is stronger than ever, while Germany's sea power. remains negligible.

Thus Germany is in a good position to demand of all the nations belonging to the league that they shall proceed in good faith to formulate a plan for reduction of war forces. The alternative is to revise the Treaty of Versailles and permit Germany to provide national defense armament. If the Locarno spirit is to be worth anything at all it must be applied to both sides impartially. France can not expect Germany to observe the Locarno spirit while France itself trusts in arms and armed allies having a latent quarrel with Germany.

Reduction of armaments and the Locarno treaties go hand in hand. One is useless without the other; but both, if based upon good faith, could preserve the peace in Europe. The world will listen with great interest to the discussion that Mr. Stresemann proposes to bring about at Geneva.

A NEW MOTOR TIRE.

After fourteen years of tedious labor and experimentation Kuno Schragin, a German, claims to have perfected a puncture-proof, pneumatic automobile tire, which has the added virtue of never needing pumping up even when it is originally installed. Mr. Schragin now is in this country attempting to market the patent.

The tire is based upon the simple idea of suction and is made of solid rubber formed over metal, which is taken from the tire after it is vulcanized. Within the tire are a series of packets connected with small openings, so that air may circulate when it is in motion. The weight of the car forces part of the air out of the side of the tire on the ground and as the evacuated portion moves toward the top mole air is drawn into the chambers by suction through circular openings in the rim.

Advance in tire construction has paralleled closely that in the automobile industry itself. It was not many years ago that the motorist was willing to accept a tire life of 2,500 miles as remarkable. Every automobile carried somewhere in its inner recesses a complete tire repair kit and rare, indeed, was the journey in which it was not brought into action at least once. Gradually, however, greater life has been built into tires, until today 25,000 miles is not exceptional. No longer is it necessary for the motorist to carry a repair outfit; punctures and blowouts have become the exceptional rather than the expected.

Yet there is nothing more provoking than a flat tire when it does occur, and there would be a genuine demand for a puncture-proof casing provided its use did not sacrifice riding comfort or steering ease. Whether or not the Schragin device is practical remains to be seen. Even though it does sound somewhat like perpetual motion when one considers the automobile inflating its own tires; even though it would seem inevitable that the faster a machine is driven the harder the tires will be inflated, until at high speeds the bursting point might be reached, still this may be that for which the automobile world has been waiting.

SEEING THROUGH FOG.

If the latest invention of the Scotch inventor, Baird, which is reported from Edinburgh to the Department of Commerce by Consul Finley, proves to be as effective as is claimed for it the question of navigation through fog will have been solved. Mr. Baird startled the world with his discovery of "television," and his new device is call "noctovision." Through its application smoke screens and fogs can he penetrated by the human eye.

Many years ago the discovery was made that through the use of nickel as an alloy of steel, in the manufacture of armor plate for battle ships, it was possible to so fortify vessels that they would be impervious to heavy shells. Another inventor promptly followed with the mor-piercing shell. So now, since smoke screens have been devised to prevent an enemy from sighting a ship surrounded with smoke, it is not surprising that an inventor should appear with a smoke-penetrating device.

Mr. Baird's invention is said to have been approved by Admiral Mark Kerr, of the British navy, who expresses the belief that, even though vision can be obtained only through light fogs, "one of the most difficult problems of the sea and of the air will have been solved" and that it will also result in a decided reduction in insurance rates. The saving of time in entering and leaving harbors is of even greater importance. The fog that enveloped the waters around Boston for several days late in July is said to have cost more than $1,000,-000 to the ships trying to make that port.

WAYNE B. WHEELER.

The last days of Wayne B. Wheeler were full of horror and tragedy. He was subjected to more than man can bear. His wife was burned to death almost before his eyes, and her aged father, helpless with heart disease, fell dead upon beholding his daughter enveloped in flames. Mr. Wheeler himself was dangerously ill, and doubtless the agony of his household tragedy hastened his death. The sympathy of the entire country went out to him.

Wayne B. Wheeler was the directing mind of the Antisaloon League, and by the exercise of marvelous political skill he created out of it a machine which consolidated the temperance forces of the country and forced through the eighteenth amendment. The advocates of prohibition were many and strong in this country before Wayne B. Wheeler's time, but it can not be doubted that he gave the prohibition movement its resistless power.

Politicians matched wits with him and found him a master at their own game. His organizing ability was astonishing. He held forces together which would have clashed under the direction of others. He vested and used these forces with which to sweep aside interests, wipe out a great source of national revenue, break down prejudices against Federal usurpation of States' rights, and write into the Constitution the abolition of the liquor traffic. No other private citizen of the United States has left such an impress upon national history. However widely opinions may differ as to the wisdom or unwisdom of the eighteenth amendment, there is no division of opinion as to Wayne B. Wheeler's dominating influence in securing its ratifi-

Mr. Wheeler was powerful, also, in promoting enforcement of the Volstead act, which was largely his creation. Prohibition as it is being tested in this country loses its strongest agency in the death of Mr. Wheeler. No other leader of the prohibition cause is in sight; and it would be almost a miracle if another should appear with the same abilities.

THE CITIZEN'S FIRST DUTY.

In 1896, according to the National Association of Manufacturers, 80 per cent of the eligible voters in the country went to the polls and voted. In 1900 the performance shaded off to 73 per cent; in 1908 it went down to 66 per cent; in 1912 it had decreased to 62 per cent, and in 1920 it dropped down to a point where only 49 per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls. In 1924, sensing how serious the tendency was becoming, the association undertook a "Get Out the Vote Campaign," with the result that instead of a President having been elected by a majority of the minority of the eligible voters as in 1920, he was elected by a majority of the majority. This year the campaign will be repeated, and with some 60,000,000 eligible in the country, it is hoped that 36,000,000, or 60 per cent, can be influenced to vote.

A pamp'let from the pen of Simon Michelet, Washington attorney, characterizes voting as a civic duty. He takes issue with those who believe that voting is a right or a privilege to be indulged in only if the fancy so dictates. The right to vote is a constitutional grant by the people in their sovereign capacity to themselves in their status as citizens. The right to vote is empty unless and until the duty to vote is duly performed. Refusal to vote in a republic is in effect an abrogation of government, and the citizen who by his own sin of omission denies himself the ballot, makes his own sovereign rights null and void.

It is a pity that in the United States, standing at the forefront of other nations because of its superior plan of government, it should be necessary to argue citizens into exercising that privilege, right and duty for which their forefathers fought and which has made political and economic progress possible. There is no guarantee of a continuance of good government unless all those eligible to vote exercise

EUROPE'S COMMERCIAL COMEBACK.

It is doubtful if there is in the United States today a man better qualified to analyze commercial conditions throughout the world than Dr. Julius Klein, director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Commerce Department. Dr. Klein has just returned from an extensive survey of the business conditions of Europe and has published the result of his observations.

"An encouraging spirit of determination is spreading in industrial and commercial circles, which previously had been laboring under a cloud of despair." is the conclusion reached by Dr. Klein. "It is fully realized," he adds, "that the pursuit of the 'phantom of prewar normalcy' is not only inexpedient but futile, that a new economic world has come into being since 1918, and the task involves not restoration of antiquated conditions but adjustment to a new and vastly improved business environment.'

Two large business gatherings and conferences held in Geneva and Stockholm during the summer demonstrated that there is healthful reaction to several continental trade agreements and tariff schedules now in process of formation. That such agreements are a prime necessity is indicated in the fact that out of 180 European trade treaties drawn up since 1920 no fewer than 153 were valid for only one year or less, which reduced internationa business "almost to a nomad, living in tents. subject to eviction on a few weeks' or even a few hours' notice. This situation has led to a determination to substitute at least frame dwellings, so to speak, for the tents; the tendency of late has been toward longer-termed agreements so that business might have as surance of something more than one night

In transportation facilities Dr. Klein found everywhere notable improvements in air, rail and ocean traffic. Germany has increased her ocean tonnage to a point where, while not up to its prewar size, it is "probably almost equal to the 1913 figure in terms of actual carrying power. This improved condition has been largely brought about through the substitution of motor power for steam. There has been a widespread expansion of air traffic, not simply on the continent, but in definite plans for service from European capitals to the trade centers of Africa and the Far East, and even for combination air, rail and ship facilities to South America.

There has been a steady advance in savings of the people. This indication of returning prosperity is most marked in Germany, where savings accounts have increased nearly 80 per cent in the past year.

The attempt of the nations engaged in the great war to solve the problem of unemployment through the development and settlement of "new" lands has, in the opinion of Dr. Klein, already reacted upon American trade in the stimulation of buying power in the new lands, many of which demand just the type of machinery for farming, road-building, mining and similar industries that was used in the development of this country. However, these new developments are naturally fostered by the 'old countries" for their own advantage, and in many instances preferential tariffs and similar concessions serve to divert such trade to the countries that initiate the development of their own colonies.

The general stabilization of the currencies of European countries is found to have had a decidedly beneficial effect upon the internal as well as the foreign commerce of those countries. Dr. Klein finds, as have other observers, that American tourist expenditures in Europe have contributed conspicuously to the rehabilitation of several countries. These expenditures exceed $500,000,000 this year. "In fact, in some countries-France, for example-the amount thus expended by our tourists for services is more than that paid by America for merchandise imports from those countries." Another factor in this rehabilitation is that the profits on the tourist trade are far higher than those secured on the merchandise ex-

The control of many items of lucrative raw material, such as rubber, tin, nitrates, vege table oils and other merchandise by European capital is another important factor in the rebuilding of the commerce of Europe. "British capital still owns a billion dollars worth of railroads in Argentina, a good portion of whose traffic is in wool, hides, quebracho and other merchandise which makes up the $83, 000,000 of annual imports of the United States from Argentina. And, if we select ten countries in the Far East and in Latin America in which there are notable European investments it is found that the exports of those countries to the United States have increased 362 per cent since 1915, as against an increase of only 83 per cent to all the other countries combined.'

In concluding his very interesting report of conditions as he found them Dr. Klein says:

It is gratifying to note in European business circles practically complete ab-sence of any bitterness or hostility toward the United States. There is, in fact, on the contrary, a steadily increasing appre-ciation of the need for mutual transat-lantic good will for the facilitation of capital advances and the steady increase of merchandise movements, which have been growing regularly in both directions. The value of American loans has been all too keenly appreciated to permit of any serious interference through impulsive, super-ficial hostility. Since 1924 over $800,-000,000 has been advanced to Germany, which has been responsible for at least a substantial portion of the industrial and commercial recovery of that country, with consequent helpful reactions to its neigh-

THE FO'C'SL AND THE BRIDGE.

With one scratch of a pen the Comptroller General of the United States, from whose decisions there is no appeal on this side of the River Styx, has wiped out the line of demarcation between the quarter deck and the fo'c'sl. The only thing lacking now to create a complete democracy in the Navy of the United States is for that omnipotent official who audits the cash accounts of the Nation to issue one more ukase, wherein he will hold that a bo'sun is on an exact equality with the newly enlisted gob, just as he is officially rated by the comptroller on an equality with the admiral of the fleet. When, in compliance with orders of the Navy Department, Admiral C. S. Williams sailed for the Philippines to take command of the Asiatic Fleet, he took passage with Mrs. Williams in one of the ships of the Dollar Steamship Co. As he was saifing on official orders, the company did not insist upon the payment of the passage money before it assigned to him the best suite on the liner. The accommodations furnished were commensurate with the rank of the officer, and, while the Comptroller General has not turned thumbs down on the transportation bill, he reads the Navy Department a lecture on the law, in which he cites commentators on the Constitution to the effect that "distinctions between citizens in regard to rank result in odious claims and privileges and silently subvert the spirit of independence and personal dignity which are so often proclaimed to be the best security of a republican government."

The decision invalidates the regulations of the Navy Department, which authorized a distinction in accommodations to be provided for officers of higher rank in the navy in travel by sea in proceeding to and from their stations. The fact that it also reverses a decision of a former comptroller of the Treasury in approving such distinction and incidentally challenges the opinion of a former Attorney General makes no difference whatever. Hereafter if any admiral of the navy thinks he is entitled to more and better attentions than Jack is allowed he will have to guess again, or pay the difference out of his own pocket.

After his 2,500 to 3,000 word homily, the Comptroller General shows that he is not so very hardboiled after all, for he twists the law a little himself, and concludes with this significant paragraph:

It not appearing that Admiral Wil-liams requested the superior accommoda-tions either for himself or for Mrs. Williams, the collection from him for the Williams, the collection from him for the excess cost will not be insisted upon. However, with a view to issuing appropriate instructions to the audit and claims division of this office in the matter of settlements of carriers' bills, I shall appreciate early advice from you whether the regulations purporting to authorize the issuance of transportation requests calling for service in excess of that authorized by law will be modified to conform to the law.

Mussolini, World Dictator. To the Editor of The Post-Sir The latest imperial act of Mussolini was to issue a decree to the effect that even foreigners who attack or criticize the Fascist regime, are to be subjected to Italian laws governing such crimes even though the act be committed abroad. It is recollected how a boisterous young American was arrested in Rome some months ago because he expressed his contempt for Mussolini in a public place. It took the whole American diplomatic corps to obtain his release, but the chances are he would not have been released except for the fact that he came from a prominent and influential family.

The new imperial edict applies to acts or criticisms even if made in foreign countries. In other words, if your newspaper publishes a criticism of Mussolini, any property which you have in Italy can be attached and perhaps your correspondents be held as hostages. If a member of an American firm were to criticize the omnipotent "Duce," the property of that firm in Italy could be attached; goods in transit could be stopped; letters could be seized; representatives arrested, etc. Now, it can be conceived that under the present dictatorship in Italy, with Mussolini in absolute power, he could govern the acts of Italians when committed in Italy, in a manner to suit himself and his crowd. But extending the dictatorship to Italians abroad, who may have become American citizens, or, in fact, to citizens of other countries, seems to be a supreme bit of imperial impertinence. Frankly, we do not know whether to laugh or become indignant. How will the American public view this new piece of legislation when it stops for a moment to think of the ef fect it will have upon newspapers, business men and public opinion in general? What will the "Duce" say when he sees that American public opinion is becoming cold towards the Fascist dictatorship in Italy? Recent dispatches from Rome point out that Count Ignazio Thaon di Revel, head of the Fascisti League of North America, has been having interviews with Mussolini and his aides in Rome. and that among subjects discussed are not only the spreading of Fascist propaganda among Italians in America, but also the enlightenment of Ameri cans as to the aims and aspirations of the Fascist regime.

Don't Act Important

HERE are two reasons for being friendly, both of them good. In the first place, the greater part of the world's happiness and unhappiness is made by human contacts.

You meet a man who is surly and ungracious, and something shrivels try needs most right now is stronger up inside you. If he offers a hand, it reminds you of a deceased fish. He gavels. depresses and burdens you.

And you, of course, if you function in the same way, have the same effect on other people. You are a liability to the human race.

This doesn't mean that you should go about slapping people on the back and calling them "Old Timer" and wrapping damp fingers about their hands; but it does mean that the minimum of good sportsmanship in a world where every man's success or failure depends in some measure on the way he is treated requires of you a friendly and tolerant spirit. There is another and more selfish reason for being decent.

When children borrow the garments of their elders and play grownups they never act as grown-ups do. They are ignorant of the art of restraint. They overdo the thing, because exaggeration is necessary to make them feel as important as grown-ups seem.

The same thing is true of nobodies who wish to appear somebodies. The very fact that they wish to appear what they aren't is a confession that they aren't anything worth while.

But they make further confession. In the effort to feel important they cultivate discourtesy. They do not growl at servants and waiters to impress these, but to impress themselves.

ANTISALOON LEAGUE CHIEFTAINS DISCUSS

Cannon, Cherrington, Wilson and Dinwiddie Mentioned as Wheeler's Successor.

BLOW TO PROHIBITION RECOGNIZED IN DEATH

Predict Cause Will Go On With Undiminished Vigor, Being Above Any Man.

The passing of Wayne B. Wheeler is the most tragic blow the Antisaloon.
League has ever experienced, and great difficulty will be found in obtaining a successor who can carry on with the effectiveness of the deceased general counsel, dry leaders declared here last night.

counsel, dry leaders declared here last night.

Among the men mentioned as possible successors to Mr. Wheeler were Bishop James Cannon, jr., chairman of the campaign committee of the league; Dr. Ernest C. H. Cherrington, of Westerville, Ohio, and Andrew Wilson, president of the Antisaloon League of Washington and a long time associate of Mr. Wheeler in legislative work here. The name of the Rev. E. C. Dinwiddle, formerly an assistant to Mr. Wheeler, but now not actively identified with the league, also was mentioned as a possible successor to the dead chieftain. It was said that the executive committee of the league would doubtless meet shortly to select a man to fill the vacancy.

Held Hard to Replace.

The significance of Wayne B. Wheeler's death from a political standpoint was not lost sight of by observers here, who declared that the Antisalom League would be unable to obtain a man of Wheeler's influence in whip-ping recalcitrant members of Congress into line behind dry legislation. These political wiseacres saw in the passing of the general counsel the removal of a most potent force in preventing legis-lation designed to liberalize the prohi-bition law.

"Wayne B. Wheeler's death must not be accepted as forecasting a let-down in the work for which the league and allied organizations stand." Dr. Dinwiddie said. "It will not affect the great rank and file of the supporters of our cause upon whom, in the final analysis, we have to depend for success. I have always given Mr. Wheeler credit for being a hard and indefatigable worker. I believe that his character was always above reproach despite the insinuations of enemies of the cause.

came to be one of the most expert phrase-makers in public life. His statements bristled with epigrams, and statements bristled with epigrams, and early in his career he found that brevity was a great asset in getting his ideas before the public. Few of his statements issued to the press exceeded a typewritten page, and most of them were made up of two or three pungent pagarants.

were made up of two or three pungent paragraphs.
Some of the most stirring times in Washington life of Mr. Wheeler came during the Sixty-ninth Congress, when the Antisaloon League counsel engaged in his famous exchanges with Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, chairman of the Senate campaign funds committee. This meeting of the Senate committee was advertised far and wide as a clashing of the wits of two outstanding leaders who were diametrically opposed as to the wisdom of one section of the laws of America, but the decision as to the victor, so far as outside appearances went, rested with the individual sentiment of those who undertook to render it.

Often Before Committees.

Often Before Committees. Often Before Committees.

But this was only one of the constant combats in which Mr. Wheeler engaged on Capitol Hill. He was a prolific witness before committees, and wherever he appeared the wets were there "gunning" for him. Even with this every-day running of the gantlet, the forces associated with him were uniformly successful in beating back every threatened advance by the opponents of the dry laws.

every threatened advance by the opponents of the dry laws.

Soon after enactment of the Volstead act some one coined the word "Wheelerism," which was freely used on the floor of the Senate and the House by those who asserted that the Antisaloon League had set up a "supergovernment," which cracked the lash on the backs of Congress as well as the officials of the administration. Some one else facetiously defined the word as a state of mind which put a senator set some one coined the word "Wheelersm", which was freely used on the floor of the Senate and the House by those who asserted that the Antisaloon League had set up a "supergovernment," which cracked the lash on the backs of Congress as well as the officials of the administration. Some one else facetiously defined the word as a state of mind which put a senator or a representative to sleep during some terrific onslaught by the militant wets, and awakened him refreshed in time to cry "yes" while the clerk recorded his vote in favor of another blow at the liquor trade.

Nevertheless "Wheelerism" was the target of invective wherever the never-

"Wheeler's passing," one wet advocate said, "will cause chaos in dryland."

Dry leaders, however, asserted that the cause was too big for the passing of any one man to injure.

"Bets placet, secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Church, said he was "yery sorry to learn of Mr. Wheelership of the passing of the Methodist Church, said he was "yery sorry to learn of Mr. Wheelership of the morals of the Methodist Church, said he was "yery sorry to learn of Mr. Wheelership of the moral of the Methodist Church, said he was "yery sorry to learn of Mr. Wheelership of the moral of the Methodist Church, said he was "yery sorry to learn of Mr. Wheelership of the moral of the Methodist Church, said he was "yery sorry to learn of Mr. Wheelership of the moral of the Methodist Church, said he was "yery sorry to learn of Mr. Wheelership of the moral of the mor

Until the executive committee of the league names a new general counsei and legislative superintendent, E. B. Dunford, assistant to Wheeler, will be in charge of legislative matters.

One of the long fights made by him at the Treasury was for the retention of Roy A. Haynes as prohibition commissioner, and this contest was carried to the White House. Mr. Haynes finally lost out, but with his departure Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary in charge of enforcement, who was opposed to Haynes, resigned from the service. Those of us who fondly remember the original version of "Seventh Heaven" as interpreted by John Warner and Leneta Lane, are prone to regard all future efforts at production as a bit in the way of imitation. fact that we've seen "Seventh Heaven" on two other occasions, the fact remains that the present version, which, unhappily, marks the closing production of the National folk, this "Seventh Heaven" will be the one most remembered. It is idle chatter to hold last year's performance as a criterion. True, there was the loveliness of the story, the excellence of the cast, and the personality of Mr. Warner, who was, indeed, a "very remarkable fellow." of Mr. Warner, who was, indeed, a "very remarkable fellow," Nonetheless, this year's "Reaven" approaches more closely the celestial heights.

The play, by Austin Strong, first was given adequate performance with Helen Menken in the role of Diane. It was a memorable production and one whose praises were sung in the diramatic epigrams of, some seasons ago. Then the play was given over to the tender mercies of the stock companies where it was given additional fame. It was the stock companies where it was given additional fame. It was the stock company version that set Washington theaterdom agog toward the middle of last season when Clifford Brooke resurrected Chico from the sewers and gave him a breathing personality made manifest in John Warner.

This season's "Seventh Heaven" is John Warner's play, as of old. And it partly belongs to Charles Hampden, who has perfected the beloved rogue Boul to admirable distinction. But, here these two characters must remain content to bask in the aura of their former greatness. The third character of the triumvirate is manifest in Miss Leona Powers, who really acts—and quite excellently. The assignment Diane gives Miss Powers ample space for her histrionic talents and after the first act has been safely stowed away she bloscoms forth in a manner that bids to compete with her finest impersonations of the season. Many of the old-line advocates had misglyings—they'd seen LaBelle Lane and Miss Menken and the grade.

Inamuch as "Seventh Heaven" has assumed institutional proportions in hardly seems proper to delve into the story of the play. Briefly, it concerns a sewer man who has aspirations to reach the stars—to be a street washer and it concerns the semitragic fate of the little waif who could see the starlight gleaming from the ends of Chico's fingers. The war adds a touch of tragedy to the story—but, all ends happills. after a good bit of shiffering has bee contributed by the lady customers. Aunt Valentine: Billy Phelps is Recan; Kathryn Givney holds the lash, as Nana, the sister of Diane, and she does remarkably well with her bit. Percy Winter made a definite impression as the aged Pere Chevillion, and Dorothy Tierney does a graceful Arlette.

Taken all in all, it's a safe guess to hazard that, should a ballot be cast for the choice of next season's stock opener, many of the cash customers will clamor for "Seventh Heaven."

Thus will end the season—a very remarkable season.

$25,000,000 net to the Federal Treasury.
Apparently there is widespread and far-flung opposition to the Federal estate tax, popularly known as the Federal estate tax, popularly to the States. Twenty-two States have adopte a concurrent resolution, virtually the same in every respect, asking Congress to repeal the law.

Here are the States: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Texas, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming. In addition, Idaho, Illinols, Iowa, Kansas, Maine and Missouri witnessed the passage of the resolution by one chamber of the legislature, the measure failing to pass both chambers for lack of time or other reasons.

A majority of the members of both buses of the Virginia Legislature also and Montans, was the resolution voted down.

Twenty-five governors already have approved of the movement, five others favor retention of the present Federal inheritance tax, and the views of ten of the remaining eighteen are reported informally to favor the law's repeal.

Thus of all the movements for tax reduction at the next session of Congress, the move to repeal the Federal estate tax apparently is the most strongly and vigorously organized. It has been rooted in the assumption that the powers of Congress spring from the States themselves, and that members of Congress.

State Legislators to Meet

Twenty-five or more governors of States will wait on Congress, most of them personally, early in December and ask for repeal of the Federal inheritance tax. A meeting to further this popular

This is evidenced by indorsements of many representative business and other groups, including the bar associations of Ohios and Pennsylvania; bankers' associations of Colorado, Arkansas, Nevada; the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, National Lumber Manufacturers Association, National Lumber Manufacturers Association, National Coal Association, National Slate Association, New York State Chamber of Commerce, American Taxpayers League, and scores of chambers of commerce and other civic groups. The thoroughness with which the movement has been quietly organized, it has been attended by virtually no publicity whatever—and the influence and character of some of its leading promoters, augur for its success. Barring the unforeseen, the Federal inheritance tax will be repealed by Congrss next winer, regardless of the disposition of other phases of the disposition of other phases of the law. For thus far there has appeared virtually no opposition to the move. It has gathered great impetus and its prospects today are far brighter than those of any other proposal:

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Uncheken in his denial that he slew his accd mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, in Streator, Ill., and then fled when he read in newspapers that he was suspented of the crime, Harry R. Hill, 22, tonight awaited the opinion of his attoineys as to whether he should fight efforts of the State of Illinois to bring him home for trial.

Hill was arrested by mere chance here Saturday night, when detectives noticed the similarity in engine numbers of an automobile he had sold here under the name of H. Jackson and a car which had been stolen here recently. He had been living in a hotel almost within a stone's throw of the police station. Hill was out when the detectives made their first call, and a search of his room revealed Illinois automobile license plates.

Taken to headquarters while police checked up on the Illinois plates, Hill admitted he was Harry H. Hill and that he understood he was wanted in the East for the slaying of his mother.

ENGINEERS PLAN IMPRESSIVE WATER APPROACH TO CITY

Notables Then Would Get Favorable View of Capital, They Say.

EXTENSION OF POTOMAC SHORE LINE IS PROPOSED

Addition to Park System at Forts Hunt and Washington Seen.

Coincidental with its plans to deelop B street as a great paradeway Cemetery, the National Capital Park and Planning Commission is considering enlargement of plans of the United of the Potomac waterfront into a great vater entrance to the city by development of the Potomac and Anacostia Explaining that many famous persons will come to Washington by the water route following the triumphal approach of Col. Charles Lindbergh, transatiantic flier, by that means, they say that the banks of the rivers from Forts Washington, Md., and Hunt, Va., would provide a far better view for many more persons watching entrances of distinguished visitors by the river way than that afforded by their short ride up. Pennsylvania avenue after entering the city by train.

An entrance way such as this, they believe, can be included in a project for extending the park system of the District of Columbia as far as Forts Hunt and Washington, where important arrivals would get their initial view of the National Capital, this view broadening as their incoming craft turns the short bend between Jones Point and Fort Foote.

Opportunity Is Stressed.

Opportunity is Stressed.

No similar approach can be found in any part of the country with advantages such as the waterway to Washington offers. The river from Fort Washington here is comparatively narrow and the channel for a great part of the way follows the Maryland shore by a few hundred yards. By extending the park system down to Fort Washington, the entrance could be effectively beautified.

The idea came to the minds of commissioners on a trip up and down the river several weeks before the arrival of Col. Lindbergh. More than a year ago, they contemplated extension of the park system on both sides of the river to Forts Hunt and Washington two Army posts that have been declared obsolete for military purposes by the War Department and placed on a sale list for funds for the new Army housing program.

A bill transferring these posts to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission for a park system, now awaits congressional action to prevent this beautiful land from becoming private property and Fort Foote, farther up the river and a short distance from Alexandris, also is desired for the same reason. Acquisition of these three stations would form a suitable basis for the commission to proceed with its plans.

Closer to Channel.

Closer to Channel,

The shore line of the Potomac will be extended closer to the channel by Army dredges dumping silt from the river bed in channel deepening operations now being carried out by the District engineer's office. This new land would provide a parkway without the city in the same manner that Anacostia is being reclaimed for one within and these flats strengthened and improved by substantial sea wells would offer seating and parking space for thousands of onlookers at future river pageants.

thousands of onlookers at future river pageants.

Dredging operations are making possible foundation work for this extensive parking system out of the river itself, the United States Supreme Court having decided that when the Federal Government lifts silt from the r.ver to adjoining flats, raising the land above the water level, that land belongs to the Government and not the property owners adjoining the fill.

This decision was based on the theory that the Government being owner of the bed of a navigable stream, still owns land when the bed is raised above the water level.

Park Base Is Provided

Park Base Is Provided.

A great expanse of water fronts Alexandria on the District side of the river immediately in front of Blue Plains, and for years sand and gravel have been removed from there for District building, leaving room for deposits of slit from the channel-deepening system and providing a base for another great park.

On the opposite side of the river, just above Alexandria, is Gravelly Point, mentioned as a site for the commercial airport, when land in that vicinity is airport, when land in that vicinity is reclaimed by pumping silt from the channel.

Such an operation would bring the Virginia shore line close to the river and to the present Potomac Park, pro-viding another immense natural van-tage point for thousands viewing river

Loving Hearts and Lovers.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Loving Hearts and Lovers.

Dear Miss McDonald: I have a perplexing problem to submit to you for a solution, and hope you can solve it for me, as I am very crazy trying to do it for myself.

To begin with, I am 25 years old, and am making a good salary. About a year ago I met a very nice girl, with whom I have been going with since then. We have had some wonderful times together, each of us loving the great outdoors and all sports in general. About two months ago a young man from another town came to see her. She had not seen him for two years, and during his brief stay I did not see her one, although I tried several times. When finally I did see her, I learned to they surprise that she had become engaged to him. She followed this by asking me if I cared for her, and I answered truthfully then that I did not. Then she suggested that we be good friends, and continue on the way we had been doing. My friends advised menot to do this, but I turned a deaf ear to them. So we have been going everywhere together, just as though nothing had ever happeded. Recently I decided to discontinue doing this, and have tried twice, but something unforseen always turned up to throw us back together again. As a last resort, I took a long trip, and discovered that I love this girl more than life itself, and just want her to be happy, no matter who she marries.

All the time I was keeping company with her I also went out with other girls to prove to myself that I did not.

that will serve 40 persons, I shall advise our friends of the exception. This holds true, of course, only in matters of the more usual recipes, as luncheon dishes, salads, cakes, pies, puddings and their kin. Preserving recipes are a thing apart and do not come under the heading of four-person recipes, for they would hardly be worth the effort attached to their construction if they did.

ling of four-person recipes, for they would hardly be worth the effort attached to their construction if they did. Thank you for your splendid communication, Mrs. Johns. As for your supper party, I should say that we are "permitted" to serve a buffet supper to any number of persons, whether 4 or 40, although it is more usual that a number which may not be served comfortably at the dining table be taken care of in this manner. There are a number of attractive ways in which to serve such a supper. One is by placing the different foods on the dining table and having the plates filled there. This calls for assistance from at least one and possibly more, of the guests, as some one must sit at the end, or ends, of the table, and serve the plates as they are brought to them.

Another method employed at a buffet supper is to arrange the plates in the kitchen and have then taken directly to the guests seated about the living and dining rooms. Coffee which is usually served with the supper of the sort of the guests seated about the least one and for successfully. Omit the saucer and place the cup on the side of the plate, if there are no tables placed about the room at which the guests may sit and rest their plates.

But, really, for only four or even six guests, I should suggest the use of the dining table. The cold supper for which you have requested suggestions may be appropriately served at the table with, as a matter (fact, far more charm than in buffet fashion. It takes many guests to make of a buffet supper party. And I suggest that even those

MODISH MITZI

She must catch a train in half an hour and

There was obviously nothing else to be done. "Please the customer?" is Mitzi's motto. Meanwhile do note her new underwear—a combination set of brassiere, belt, knickers and short skirt as she telephones and says will the shop please send down the frock she was looking at yesterday? She needs it at once!

Mitzi's success as a fashion advisor brings in more and more customers. This time it is a really charming lady, in a hurry and also in an ensemble with a long coat—blue banded in darker blue. Her little felt hat has ribbon trimming to match the blue bands on her frock and coat. She is explaining— (All rights protected by the George Matthew Adams Service -Trade mark registered United States Patent Office.)

will Mitzi please find her at least one smart costume? Something very much like Mitzi's own dress and coat is exactly what she wants. In fact, if Mitzi could bring herself to consider it these are just what she wants. Mitzi explains that they just came in and she—

Was trying them on to see whether she wouldn't like them herself. The dress, as you can see, has the smart one-sided effect everyone likes this fall, new sleeves and an unusual colar. It uses the two sides of crepe satin most effectively. The hat is a little fitted turban of chiffon felt with a one-sided drape.

Tennis Crown Decided in 3 Sets

Johnston and Williams Beaten in Finals, 10-8, 6-3, 6-3.

"Big Bill" Is Star of Match; Miss Bennett and Cochet Win.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 5 (A.P.). William T. Tilden 2d, of Phila-delphia, and his Wimbledon part-ner, Francis T. Hunter, of New York. ner, Francis T. Hunter, of New York, are the national doubles tennis champions for 1927. They won the title on the main court of the Longwood Cricket Club today by defeating William M. Johnston, of California, and Richard N. Williams, of Philadelphia, in straight sets, 10—3, 6—3, 6—3.

After the men's doubles match, Miss Elleen Bennett, of England, and Henri Cochet, of France, won the mixed doubles title from Mrs. George W. Wightman, of Boston, and Rene La-Coste, of France. The scores were 2—6, 6—0, 6—2.

The first set of the men's doubles match was a keenly contested battle that ended only when Tilden loosed a remarkable steady atteck that gave him and Hunter three straight games and the set. The next five sets.

Filden was largely responsible for cifficult to return.

In fact, the last two sets were decided in favor of Tilden and Hunter mainly because Johnston and Williams repeatedly drove to the net or outside. Whatever they gained on their service they more than lost by their unsteady play in returning Tilden's and Hunter's terrific smashes.

Dr. A. H. Butler, who was attending the game, administered first aid. After Cancillon was taken to the hospital Dr. Butler stated he had had a very mild stroke brought on by high blood pressure. The physician stated that Cantillon's condition was not thought to be serious but he was advised to remain in bed and have complete rest for a few days.

Joe Cantillon managed the Washington American League team for several years before the reign of Clark Griffith in 1912.

SSTEP.

Here's the cat's meow direct from the East.

Trainer Knapp in his day was one of the best of American race riders and he has developed into a sterling trainer. He has passed me the o. k. on the youngster, saying: "He can beat NASSAK and should trim BILLY and other Western stars. All this takes place in the third race out at Washington Park. Local turfites are likely to make BILLY the favorite, but that makes no never mind. MISSTEP will run BILLY, HIRAM, JIM BRIDGER and the other youngsters into a gopher hole. And I don't mean maybe.

Maidens contest in the opener. JOE ADAMS is on the also eligible list, but if he gets in it will be a case of Katy bar the door. OPEN GO SHUT seems a trifle best of the others.

CHAFF appears best in the second, and with an even break in racing luck will show NEVER-way home.

TRACKMEN'S SELECTIONS KEANES EVEN PETWORTH

Freschi Allows 6 Hits to Tremonts; Crucial Game Sunday.

PLAY for the Petworth League banner swayed in the T. T. Keanes' direction yesterday when the Tremonts were vanquished, il to 3. The series now is even, each team having won a game. The third and final contest will be played on the South Ellipse next Sunday at 3 o'clock.

The Freschi brothers were the big guns in the Keanes' victory. Joe hurled excellent ball, keeping his opponents six hits well scattered and fanning six. To top this performance, Mike Freschi aided in the attack with three timely hits, including a resounding home run.

SERIES

Brother Mike, erstwhile manager of the club, roamed all over the outfield contributing spectacular fielding bits that took all the heart out of the Tremonts. Colliflower and Kilroy also injected plays during the game that worked to the advantage of the Keanes.

to the advantage of the Keanes.

The Tremonts' cause was hopeless after their pitching threat, Doc Baker, failed in his effort to aubdue the Meat Packers. Although beaten there was still pienty of fight in their make-up and they expect to win the "crucial" clash next Sunday.

TUNNEY THRILLS 2,000 FANS IN 9-ROUND WORKOUT

Partners at Top Speed

Smiles at Admirers Between Rounds of First Workout.

AKE VILLA, Ill., Sept. 5 (A.P.).—
Gene Tunney today showed 2,000
Chicagoans, most of them viewing the titleholder for the first time, the stuff of which champions are made.
Working out for the first time since his arrival here Friday from Speculator, N.Y., to complete training for the championship fray with Jack Dempsey in Soldiers Field September 22, Tunney traveled nine rounds at top speed to work out any kinks that may have developed in a four-day lay-off. Gene has been able to get in only a few miles of road work during the process of acclimation and unpacking at the Cedar Crest Country Club, his home until the night of the title defense.

The crowd that motored, bussed, trolleyed and "trained" 65 miles from Chicago to glimpse the smiling champion in action for the first time, cheered Gene's every movement as he punched the light bag for three rounds and boxed two sessions each with Chuck Wiggins, Billy Vidabeck and Frank Muskie.

Certainly no kinks apeared during the workout. Tunney cuffed and jabbed his mates at will, showering them about the head with volleys of clean blows. Despite the obvious satisfaction Gene took in the crowd's pleasure at seeing him in action, he made no effort to extend

During the three rounds at the light bag. Tunney was content to warm up thoroughly, breaking the monotony of the steady two-handed attack with straight right hand slams. Gene grin-ned at the enthusiasm of the specta-tors, the "ohs" and "ahs" that nunctuated his rests between punches tors, the "ohs" and "ahs" that punctuated his rests between punches. Chuck Wiggins again bore the brunt of the heavy work. For a round all went well with the Indianapolis lightheavyweight, but in the second session, Gene caught the bounding Wiggins with several solid right slams to the head that laid Chuck on the ropes and took much of the agility from his legs.

Gene boxed superbly against Billy Vidabeck, timing one-two punches to the head nicely. Billy did his best to bob out of range, but could not elude Tunney's shifty attack. One solld right smash to the heart, a punch Gene rarely uses in train-ing, doubled the Bayonne middle-weight in the second frame.

Muskie ran into a storm of right rosses that had him fumbling around

Says Title Gives Him New Sense of Security in Ring.

Spurns Headguard in Training and Won't Hurt Partners.

HICAGO, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Has possession of the heavyweight title given Gene Tunney additional power even though his body has gained not a whit of additional strength since he won the title from Jack Dempsey last fall? Gene thinks so.

"Into the return fight with Dempsey at Chicago I shall carry the subconscious conviction that I am the master of my division, that I am the champion—to put it frankly, that I am good and have demonstrated my class.

"It is an instinctive reaction that probably never will form as a definite thought in my mind during the heat of the contest. But that knowledge of power, now a part of my subconscious mind as a result of my last fight with Dempsey, has increased my confidence tremendously and made me a far better fighter."

The bearing of a champion shows The bearing of a champion shows in every move Tunney makes in the training camp. Seekers of authoration of the desired state of the desired signature no matter what important matters may be pressing.

In training, Gene is every inch a champion. A sense of security, not at all affected, envelopes him as he smiles, swaps banter with his punch catchers, and then hammers home blows with ease and confidence. The dogged seriousness of pretitle days has disappeared in the realization that someone else must worry about winning the championship now that his own ring mastery has been proven. The burden of proof has passed to other hands.

Gene is absolute master of his won destiny. In training settos the champion refuses to don the padded helmet that usually protects the face and ears of a fighter. Instead, he has absolute confidence in his ability to avoid any sextra punishment a sparring partner may seek to dole out when stung. Gene, too, has a theory an outgrowth of the early as "Batted for Giants."

extra punishment a sparring partner may seek to dole out when stung. Gene, too, has a theory, an outgrowth of the early days when he was cut easily about the head and bled freely, that punches taken on the face form a layer of calloused skin over his eyes and across the cheekbones that is difficult to pierce.

How thoroughly the championship yirus has seened into Tunner's General Control of State Control of Sta

Yet on rare occasions, a punch sifts Yet on rare occasions, a punch sifts through the champion's guard, bangs into his countenance, and for a moment Gene is king, fists flashing furiously and brows lowered, defending his standing as the ruler of his profession. Then Gene appears just a bit sorry, whispers to the youngster facing him, and probably promises himself mentally never to do that again—at least, until the night of September 22.

The Harlem Midgets took both ends of a twin bill yesterday, defeating the Diamond Midgets, 1 to 0 and disposing of the Calhouns. 12 to 2. The first engagement was a heated pitchers' ttle between Jim Ready and Feliner, with the former having a slight advantage. The winning run came in the ninth on a walk, a sto on base and a wild throw. The second fracas was a runaway for the Harlems. Consistent hitting behind the effective pitching of Howard caused the effective pitching of Howard cause-the Calhouns downfall.

STANCE FOR DEMPSEY

Jack Tries Plan of Flynn in Fast Four-Round Workout.

INCOLN FIELDS, Crete, Ill., Sept 5 (A.P.).—Obeying the instructions of Manager Leo P. Flynn to box in a flat-footed stance instead of tearing in on his toes, Jack Dempsey labored through four rounds of boxing this Labor Day afternoon, revealing impressive form that elated his admirers.

It was Dempsey's eleventh day of training, and the work-out, in the opinion of the experts, was the snappi-est in which the former world's heavyest in which the former world's heavyweight champion has indulged. After the work-out Manager Flynn announced Dempsey would rest tomorrow and Wednesday, devoting his time to light road work exclusively and plenty of golf, if he chooses to play golf.

When Dempsey resumes boxing Thursday there will be no more public workouts. He will toil in private, with only newspaper correspondents watching the proceedings.

Flynn says Dempsey does not like to work with spectators commenting on his failure to land or his punishment of sparring mates. Flynn wants to coach him carefully in his new style of boxing flat-flooted, and to have Dempsey go through his paces without attempting to satisfy the spectators, who have been paying $1.10 apiece to watch the workouts.

Dempsey took on Allentown Joe Gans, Jack McCann, Osk Till and Benny Krueger, in the order named, for a round each. He won three rounds and dropped the one to Till. That was because Till was throwing plenty of left hands, following out the instructions of Manager Flynn, and Dempsey was practicing a defense for these thrusts.

Gans was outscored, but escaped unter the McCann and Krueger were receivers of a heavy socking and wound up with bleeding faces.

Coach Little Stresses Trick Formations at Grid Camp.

By ORREL MITCHELL (Staff Correspondent of The Post). (Staff Correspondent of The Post).

WILDWOOD, N. J., Sept. 5.—The resumption of training by the Georgetown football — squad here today after a soothing rest yesterday found the candidates in high spirits. eagerly looking forward to the grind of the final week at camp. Since the shakeup in the squad following the unsatisfactory work of the players in the recent practices a strange and different atmosphere prevails in training camp.

These teams will remain intact throughout the training season at Wildwood and possibly during the two following weeks' drills at the Hilltop before the regular eleven is decided upon to oppose Lenoir Rhyne in the opening game on September 24.

A snappy signal drill by the teams that lasted for 20 or 30 minutes round off the morning practice. In the afternoon scrimmage the contending three elevens, goaded to a high pitch by the fault-finding words of the coaches, went into play tooth and nail.

The players were more aggressive and seemed to have grasped the ideas of their coaches in several of the plays. The offense of the teams as units and more effective coordination between the linesmen and backs were particularly stressed. If the candidates continue to keep up today's efforts during the next three weeks the Hilltoppers should be on edge for their 1927 debut.

Tech High Gridmen Report for Training

The Rialtos split a twin bill with the Hiser All-Stars yesterday, winning the first game, 5-4, and dropping the second, a seven-inning game, 3-1.

Wasserman was the winning pitcher of the first game, and Marosey, Business High School star, pitched the Hisers to a victory in the second.

Harris' Second-Place Drop to Fourth Place Hopes Fade; Alibi by Shacht.

Special to The Washington Post.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—This important series with the Mackmen ends with a double-header tomorrow. After dropping a pair today, the Nats might as well kiss their second place hopes good-by unless they snare tomorrow's pair.

Manager Harris is holding Fred Marberry over for pitching purposes in one berry over for pitching purposes in one of these contests, while Horace Lisenbee will get the call in the other game. Connie Mack is expected to ask "Rube" Walberg and Ed Rommel to do the home flinging.

Some of the Harrismen took occasion to "pan" Coach Al Schacht for leving Bob Reeves try to score on Speaker's hit in the third inning of Straday's contest with the Red Sox.

The comedian's alibi was most

He claims that he did not even see the runner, so fast did he flurry by. According to Al, Rice stumbled rounding third and bumped him and, by the time he regained his equilibrium, Reeves already had passed the station at a 60-mile-an-hour clip.

"Foot in the Bucket" Al Simmons, Mackian centerfielder, who has been out of the game with a leg injury since July 23, rejoined the Athletics here this morning, but is not expected to get back in the line-up for a week or more, He has been at his home in Milwaukee since he was hurt and will need several glays of practice is get back into playing.

This batting change brought Burke to the mound. He granted hits to Quinn and Hale in the home half and was not scored on.

When Judge singled and Ruel walled in the seventa, it looked as though the Harrismen would do something worth while but the Macks and McGowan picked out this spot to negotiate the triple play already described.

This was the last threat of the game This was the last threat of the game. It was a crime that the Nats dropped the morning game, Zachary deserving a better fate, for he held the Mackmen to but six hits, and none of these came until the sixth frame, when Boley contributed a wasted double. The Elephants bunched two in the seventh, but failed to score, but Bishop's single followed by Hale's double, we're good for a marker in the eighth.

Ehmke, on the firing line for the Macks, also herled brilliantly, granting but five hits in the eight-inning shift he tolled. He was in trouble but once, in round two, when the Nats scored their lone marker. The bases were full when the final out was turned in July 23, rejoined the Athletics here this morning, but is not expected to get back in the line-up for a week or more. He has been at his home in Milwaukee since he was hurt and will need several days of practice to get back into playing form.

Bob Reeves' reign near the top of the Nat batting order did not last long. In the three games he hit in number 2 position, he obtained but two hits and fanned seven times. As a result of this showing, he hit just ahead of the pitcher today.

Washington batters nearly ruined 1 impire Billy by ans in this morning's game. In the second inning, a foul off Reeves's bat hit the arbiter on top of the head while in the fifth one off Stewart's Tall landed on the knee which Evans fwisted in Washington in late July.

For a while, it looked as though this latter blow would force the umpire to call it a day, but he insisted on finishing out the game.

The umpires were bedecked in their best clothes in the afternoon game. Trade Bureau Head Declares Countries Have Shaken Off Calamity Complex.

NOTES LACK OF BITTER FEELING TOWARD U. S.

Appreciation of Need of Good Will Held Advancing Steadily.

Although there remain a few "unfavorable spots" to be cleared up Europe on the whole is well on the road to economic recovery, in the opinion of Dr. Julius Klein, director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, who just has returned from a long study of European conditions. In a report to his chief, Secretar, Hoover, the trade official declared yes Hoover, the trade official declared yesterday that European countries generally have shaken off the "calamity complex" or mental hazard for a stronger business morale, and are rapidive becoming convinced that the problem is "one of trade dislocation rather than downright destruction."

He also noted an almost complete absence of "any bitterness or hostility" toward the United States in European business circles, finding instead "a steadily increasing appreciation of the need for mutual transatiantic good will for the facilitation of capital advances and the steady increase of merchandise movements, which have been

As to the attitude toward American business, Dr. Klein said the value of American loans had been "too keenly appreciated to permit of any serious interference through impulsive, superficial hostility."

Since 1924, he said, more than $600.-000,000 had been advanced by this country to Germany. He aded that this was responsible for "at least a substan-ical portion of the industrial end com-mercial recovery of that country, with consequent helpful reactions to its neighbors."

EUROPE RECOVERING ECONOMICALLY, SAYS KLEIN, AFTER STUDY

Trade Bureau Head Declares Countries Have Shaken Off Calamity Complex.

NOTES LACK OF BITTER FEELING TOWARD U.S.

Appreciation of Need of Good Will Held Advancing Steadily.

(Associated Press.)

Although there remain a few "unfavorable spots" to be cleared up, Europe on the whole is well on the road to economic recovery, in the opinion of Dr. Julius Klein, director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, who just has returned from a long study of European conditions. In a report to his chief, Secretary Hoover, the trade official declared yes-Hoover, the trade official declared yesterday that European countries generally have shaken off the "calamity complex" or mental hazard for a stronger business morale, and are rapidly becoming convinced that the problem is "one of trade dislocation rather than downright destruction."

He also noted an almost complete absence of "any bitterness or hostility" toward the United States in European business circles, finding instead "a business circles, finding instead "a steadily increasing appreciation of the need for mutual transatiantic good will for the facilitation of capital advances and the steady increase of merchandise movements, which have been growing regularly in both directions."

Widespread expansion of air, rail and ship traffic, completion of currency and budgetary stabilization in nearly all countries, advances in savings and a reduction of unemployment by normal postwar exploitation of colonial projects, were some of the important strides the trade expert found for the last twelve months.

As illustrations, he cited definite plans for expanding air services, not only on the continent, but to the trade centers of Africa and the Far East, and for combination air, rail and ship facilities to South America; several "luxury trains" added to rolling stock, and an increase of 80 per cent in savings in Germany. That country also had brought her ship tonnage up almost to prewar figures in terms of actual carrying power by further replacement of steam by motor power.

EXCHANGED FOR LIBERTYS

(Associated Press.) More than half a billion dollars of otes and certificates of indebtedness ere offered by the Treasury yesterday announcing its September 15 or third uarter financing program. These are two issues, consisting of ap-roximately $250,000,000 in six months per cent Treasury certificates of in-btedness and about $250,000,000 for cash and a limited amount for exchange in 3 to 5 year 3½ per cent Treasury notes. Both offerings are dated Sep-tember 15. Subscriptions for the certificates and cash subscriptions for the notes are in-vited at par and accrued interest, while the exchange subscriptions are offered t 100 1-3.

In addition to the cash offering of tes, these securities will be exchanged second Liberty Loan converted 41/4 cent bonds, the amount for exchange to be limited only by the amount of the second 4½ stendered and accepted. There are $1,180,924,000 of these bonds outstanding. The exchange offering, which is virtually the same as that of March 15 last, except for the premium, was said to be "in furtherance of the Treasury's refunding program."

ance of the Treasury's refunding program."

Interest on any second 4½s surrendered and accepted upon allotted exchange subscriptions will be paid in full to November 15, 1927, when all bonds of the second Liberty loan have been called for redemption. Subscribers offering the 4½s for the new notes will be paid interest from May 15 to November 15, less the amount of the premium on the notes issued.

Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TS-1927 and TS2-1927, both maturing September 15, will be accepted at Federal Reserve banks at par in payment for the new certificates, any accrued interest to be adjusted on the series so paid for. The old certificates also will be accepted in payment for the new notes, series B-1930-32, which are allotted for cash.

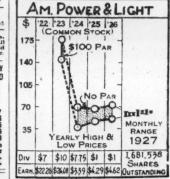

The exchange offering of notes will be kept open until September 29, while the certificates in cash offerings of notes will probably be available for only a few days.

The Treasury took occasion again to call attention that about $1,200,000,000 of second Liberty loan bonds are at present outstanding and will cease to bear interest on November 15.

The American Power and Light Company

Light Company

The American Power & Light Co. was incorporated in 1909 for the purpose of acquiring securities of companies operating or controlling electric power and light, gas, rallway and water works properties. The subsidiaries which are controlled serve nearly 550 communities located in eleven States: Arizona, Florida, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Oregon, Texas, Washington and Wisconstin. A total population of nearly 3,000,000 people is served, the principal service consisting of electric power and light. During recent years earnings have shown a very constant expansion. For instance, whereas net earnings of subsidiary companies totaled $7,431,310 in 1920, the net earnings figure reported for 1926 was $26,005,381. Earnings as applied to the common stock amounted to $4,52 ir 1926, as compared with per share profits of $4.29 in 1925 and $3.39 in 1924. Per share earnings in previous years were much larger, due to the smaller.

The American Power & Light Co. has a comparatively small funded debt and only a moderately sized issue of preferred stock outstanding ahead of the common shares. Dividends on these common shares are being made at the rate of $1 per share per year plus extras. tras.

HOUSE DECORATIONS TO PLAY BIG PART IN HOME BEAUTIFUL

Exhibit Sponsored by The Washington Post Will Open September 18.

BOOKS PLAY PROMINENT PART IN ARRANGEMENTS

Pictures and Flowers Will Fit Surroundings and Create Atmosphere.

Books, pictures and flowers are acheduled to play a big part in the Home Beautiful exhibit, which will be open for public inspection from September 18 to 25. The exhibit is given under the sponsorship of The Washington Post, in cooperation with retail merchants, home builders and realtors of Washington.

Five houses, varying in price from $10.500 to $40,000, all conveniently located, will be used as models. These have been loaned by nome builders and recommend a drastic revision of the city.

The refining influence of books has been stressed by students of mankind for generations. It often has been said that a man's character could be accurately judged by the kind of books he keeps in his home. One thing is certain—no real home is complete without a good library, and it would be hard to find a home in which there is not aome pretense at least of a library, whether the owner is a reader or not. Those in charge of assembling the exhibit intend to demonstrate the absolute necessity of books during Home Beautiful week in Washington. They will be most attractively arranged, and will be chosen to fit the home and the probable taste of the man or woman who will eventually occupy it.

Every convenience will be provided to make reading a pleasure instead of a hardship, as it is in many homes when lights and chairs are not properly arranged. For those who are in the habit of reading in bed this phase will also be presented. There will be a table and lights convenient to the bed in the sleeping chambers, with a well-selected book or so at hand.

Mrs. R. H. Thomas, who will do the decorating and furnishing of the five houses, is not one of those individuals who believe in a vast expense of undecorated, glaring walls.

Agood picture here and there. well selected and propely hung, adds to the beauty and charm of any and every home, she believes, and with this idea she will see to it that the walls are properly decorated with the best in art that Washington affords.

In many homes, of course, the pleture idea is worked to death. There are cheap pictures used in many places; there are pictures that do not just fit in with surroundings, and there are cases where too many of them are used. But there is a happy medium which Mrs. Thomas plans to strike, which will add to the appearance of the five

But there is a happy medium which Mrs. Thomas plans to strike, which will add to the appearance of the five homes forming the exhibit.

No home, is really complete without flowers. This is an axiom that has never been refuted. They add an atmosphere to the home which nothing clse can quite provide, and help to bring about the air of home which is the real objective of every good planner of a home. This touch will be provided by the florists of Washington.

The houses in the "Home Beautiful" exhibit will open for public inspection on September 18 and will remain open daily from 1 to 10 p. m. through September 25. The public is invited to visit the houses without charge, to study them and adopt for their own use any suggestion shown which may appeal to any one's individual taste.
